In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

How risky is it?

The value of the fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge risk is to look at how much a fund’s returns change over time. This is called “volatility”.

Distributions: Monthly (any net income) and in December (any net capital gains). Reinvested capital gains distributions are automatically consolidated
Minimum investment: Determined on a contractual basis

A word about tax
In general, you’ll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether or not you hold the fund in a registered plan such as a Registered Retirement Savings Plan or a Tax-Free Savings Account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?
The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series O units of the fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges
Instead of paying a sales charge on each transaction, you pay an annual fee to your representative’s firm based on the value of your assets. You pay no sales or redemption charges if you buy, redeem or switch Series O units.
2. Fund expenses

You don’t pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the returns of this series of the fund.

As of September 30, 2019, the Series O expenses of the fund were 0.06% of its value. This equals $1 for every $1,000 invested.
